Dear Holy Rosary Friends and Families,

The preaching of the Word is the vocation of the Dominican Friar, a vocation that was exemplified by the life of Saint Dominic. The task of preaching the Word, correcting, reproofing, and appealing, is a solemn task that Saint Paul in his letter to Timothy charges in the presence of Jesus Christ, the Just Judge. The Dominican Friar must preach the Gospel, because, if he does not, he will have to explain himself at the Last Judgement when Jesus comes to judge the living and the dead.

The Dominican Order is dedicated to preaching the truth of the Gospel. One of our mottos is "Veritas"—"Truth." We preach the truth so that the People of God might know God and become His friends.

However, the time has come—and this time is every age—when people will not tolerate sound doctrine but follow their own desires. There are teachers in every age that tickle the ears with novelties and appealing compromises that seduce people by providing convenient rationalizations or appeals to our weaknesses.

Catholic doctrine is quite extravagant. The famous 19th century preacher of Notre Dame de Paris, Father Jean-Baptiste Lacordaire, O.P., writes that: "...if Catholic doctrine were a work of human reason, it would not be a superhuman work; if it were a philosophy it would not be a religion. Instead of dogmas you would have mathematical theorems, and instead of being here [Notre Dame] you would be at home, because you would find nothing here which was not at home."

The superhuman work of Catholic doctrine is extravagant, but this is precisely why we should be interested in it. The dogmas of the faith teach us about God, our friend, and the inner secrets of God's life.

Someone who rashly departs from Catholic doctrine makes himself a measure of God rather than accepting God as a measure of himself. He does not stand humbly before God and accept God's self-revelation but determines for himself what God is really like. In this way, he has become like a person who does not allow his friend to share his heart with him.

We cannot determine in advance who our friend is—part of friendship is being open to learn about the other person. We then reciprocate with a sharing of ourselves. If we determine who our friend is, and do not let our friend show us who he is, being open to receive his self-revelation, no friendship is possible. In this case, we have not gone beyond our own ideas and self-projections. We remain stuck within ourselves with our own prejudices and preferences.

The love of friendship pierces us and wounds us precisely because we must give up something of ourselves. Among other things, we must give up our own advanced judgements and become transparent. We must become so transparent that the self-revelation of our friend can pass through us without being obscured by our own ego.

It is precisely through love that we become transparent in this way. The lover wants to love the beloved and not just a projection of himself, a construction of his own ideas and preferences. In love we come outside of ourselves and penetrate the inner world of the other person, and the other person penetrates us, because in entering another person's inner world, our inner world becomes known to them. Lovers mutually inhere in each other and in a certain way become one self.

Heresy and other forms of unbelief prevents this relationship of love from getting off the ground. Instead of perceiving God's goodness, which motivates us to know Him on His own terms, we end up perceiving our own ego, and begin to delight in our own intellectual creations.

In this way, heresy and unbelief is an idolatry, because we have exchanged the living God for some fragment of ourselves that we fashioned out of previously learned ideas, desires, and experiences. It is not much more foolish to bow down to stone sculptures than it is to bow down to our own conceptual creations.

ST. MARTIN DE PORRES FOOD PANTRY Parishioners who wish to access the pantry are welcome to do so by contacting Sue Scheese at foodpantry@holyrosarypx.org. Do you wish to help the pantry? Non-perishable food donations are welcome in the office or vestibule, and financial contributions are welcome, payable to Holy Rosary Church, memo "Food Pantry".

BYRD FESTIVAL: COMPLINE The choir of the William Byrd Festival will be singing the service of Compline at Holy Rosary Church at 8:00 pm on Sunday, August 7. This peaceful, contemplative 45-minute service is the traditional night prayer of the Church, dating back to the time of St. Benedict (480-547) and the first Western monasteries. Compline at the Festival includes choral settings by Tallis and Byrd, along with the three traditional psalms in Gregorian chant. A particular highlight is Byrd's beautiful setting of the antiphon Miserere mihi Domine, which is sung as a refrain before and after the psalms.
